PARKING BAN IS SET ON UPPER EAST SIDE

9/25/53
Program Effective Monday to Help Keep Streets Cleaner
—32.6 Miles Are Affected

Extension of the alternate-side-of-the-street parking program to a 145-square-block area of the upper East Side, Yorkville and East Harlem will go into effect on Monday. The ban will free 16.3 miles of curb space for three hours every day so that "New York will be a cleaner metropolis."

In a joint announcement of the project, Traffic Commissioner T. T. Wiley and Sanitation Commissioner Andrew W. Mulrain said that the program would be extended to nine more areas of the city next month.

The Yorkville-East Harlem zone is part of the 800-block area between Eighty-sixth and 155th Streets from the Hudson to the East River that was to have been barred to parking for street cleaning purposes next Thursday. The full program was delayed by procurement difficulties arising from the strike of construction workers.

Fourth Restricted Area

The new area to be restricted Monday—the fourth in the city—will be from Eighty-sixth Street north to 106th Street, between Fifth Avenue and the East River. It will cover 32.6 miles of curb space. In conjunction with the ban, seventy-six bus stops will be relocated from the near side of intersections to the far side.

Parking will be barred between 8 and 11 A. M. on the north side of crosstown streets and on the west side of avenues from 106th Street to Ninety-sixth Street on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. On Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, parking will be prohibited on the south side of crosstown streets and on the east side of avenues.

From Ninety-fifth Street to Eighty-sixth Streets, the ban will be in effect from 11 A. M. to 2 P. M.

Motorists illegally parked in the area will be subject a fine of $15 and the car will be towed away to a Department of Sanitation pound. Recovery of vehicles will involve paying a $10 towing charge, plus $1-a-day storage fee. Before cars can be reclaimed, owners will have to go to the main office of the Sanitation Department, 125 Worth Street, present evidence of ownership and pay all charges.

In an effort to cut down on the cars to be towed, the city has arranged with the Department of Welfare to supply forty persons on relief to act as parking wardens. They will supplement warning signs in advising motorists of the restrictions.

Sisal-Growing in Haiti

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Aug. 3 (AP)—André de Coppet, broker in New York until his retirement ten years ago, died in a clinic here last night after a heart attack. His age was 62. He came to Switzerland, where his family originated, on his vacation annually.

Bought Napoleon Letters

Mr. de Coppet, a member of a socially prominent New York family, was former head of the Wall Street brokerage firm of de Coppet & Doremus. A collector of rare books and manuscripts, he lent to the library of Princeton University in 1935 a collection of ten letters written by Napoleon and five letters written by Marie Louise. The letters were among the official and private papers of Prince Eugène Beauharnais, Napoleon's stepson, and were purchased by Mr. de Coppet in London in 1934.

Mr. de Coppet, who was a son of the late Edward J. de Coppet, founder of the brokerage firm, was graduated from Princeton in 1915 with a Bachelor of Literature degree. He served in the Seventy-seventh Division in World War I, winning the Distinguished Service Cross and the Croix de Guerre for bravery in action.

After heading de Coppet & Doremus for several years he retired to devote his time to other business interests, among which was sisal growing in Haiti. His Plantation Dauphin, together with the Haitian-American Development Corporation, which he owned and operated, played a major part during World War II in the production of substitute fibers for rope-making, after the import of hemp from the Philippines had been stopped.

Mr. de Coppet received the Haitian Order of Merit for his work in behalf of the Republic of Haiti. He belonged to the Union and the Racquet and Tennis Clubs here.

He leaves his wife, the former Eileen Johnston of Islip, L. I.; a son, Edward, a student at Oberlin College, and a daughter, Miss Jacqueline de Coppet, a student at Wellesley College, both by a former marriage; two daughters, Diane and Laura, by his present wife, and a sister, Mrs. Juliet Stengel of this city.

GLEASON IS GUILTY IN PERJURY TRIAL

Former Sanitation Inspector
Convicted in Shakedown—
Sampson Inquiry Hinted

A special jury returned a verdict of guilty last night against John E. Gleason Jr., former general inspector in the Department of Sanitation, who was charged with having perjured himself before a grand jury investigating shakedowns of fuel-oil installers.

Actually there were four verdicts of guilty, one for each of the four perjury counts against the 55-year-old defendant. The jury's decision was announced by its foreman, Edward M. Farrell.

Gleason is liable to a maximum prison sentence of five years and a $5,000 fine, or both, on each of the counts.

General Sessions Judge John A. Mullen remanded the defendant to City Prison and said that sentence would be pronounced on May 14. He congratulated the jury on its speed in reaching its verdict. Not counting time at dinner, the jury deliberated seventy minutes. An appeal will be taken, Gleason's lawyer said.

The all-male jury began deliberations at 6:07 P. M., after listening to detailed summings-up by James F. Ryan, defense attorney, and Assistant District Attorney Alfred J. Scotti and a charge from General Sessions Judge John A. Mullen. The verdict was announced at 10 o'clock.

The last flurry in the case, which began on April 6, came when the prosecutor hinted that the grand jury would follow up allegations made during the hearings that former Tammany leader Frank J. Sampson had been involved in oil-installation shakedowns.

Details of Accusation

The charges against Gleason were that:

¶He lied to the grand jury when he denied having conferred with three men about the machinery for the shakedown after the conviction of the boss of the racket, James J. Moran, former First Deputy Fire Commissioner.

¶He told a falsehood when he denied to the grand jury that he had discussed with the same three men an investigation of the oil-installation racket by the District Attorney's office.

¶He perjured himself when he denied to the grand jury that he had told these three men not to worry about the investigation and to maintain the extortion racket.

¶He lied when he told the grand jury he had not received from one of the three alleged confederates about $12,000 in one lump on Dec. 15, 1950, and subsequent payments of $1,500 and $2,000.

Mr. Scotti pleaded for a verdict of guilty on all four counts, not so much to punish the defendant but as a means of making the city a better place in which to live.

"If you are going to lift the quality of government to the level where there will be a wholesome, healthy, decent regard of public officials for public office," said Mr. Scotti, "then it is your duty to guard the conscience of the community by returning a verdict of guilty."

Mr. Ryan, in his two and one-half-hour summing up, pointed out that the prosecution had based its case on the testimony of three convicted felons and of a fourth who had pleaded guilty to a crime.

Witnesses Are Deferred

The prosecutor conceded that his chief witnesses had been convicted of complicity in the extortion or else had admitted the crime and that they had received lenient treatment because they had cooperated with the District Attorney's office. However, he pointed out that, in trying to break a racket, the chief sources of information were necessarily people of ill repute.

Judge Mullen in his charge to the jury defined perjury under Articles 1620 and 1620A of the Penal Code and pointed out that conviction of perjury requires the credible testimony of two persons or else of one credible witness and "corroborative, independent circumstances."

He stressed that testimony from "polluted sources" was permissible but that the jurors were within their rights in considering the background of witnesses in deciding on their credibility.

Mr. Gleason, whose home is at 883 Sixty-eighth Street, Brooklyn, retired from his Department of Sanitation post on Oct. 15, 1951. He had entered public service in 1914 as a clerk in the office of the County Clerk of Manhattan. The following year he was transferred to the office of the District Attorney of New York County, where he served as calendar clerk and investigator.

On Feb. 2, 1946 he was appointed to the job of general inspector of the Sanitation Department by Sanitation Commissioner William J. Powell. He is married and has three children.

11 Jurors Picked At Gleason Trial

Seven more men were selected yesterday in General Sessions to sit on the blue ribbon jury which is to try John E. Gleason jr. on a perjury indictment stemming from a grand jury investigation into a Fire Department extortion racket. Four male jurors were chosen Monday. It is expected the twelfth member of the panel and two alternates will be picked today.

Gleason, former Sanitation Department general inspector, is charged with committing perjury before the New York County grand jury seeking to determine who succeeded James J. Moran as boss of a $500,000-a-year Fire Department racket involving the shakedown of fuel oil equipment installers.

After the jury is completed, opening statements will be made before Judge John A. Mullen by Assistant District Attorney Alfred J. Scotti and James F. Ryan, chief defense counsel.
